You can also do these things out of the lock screen: Tap one notification or group of notifications to view all of them for that app. Swipe on notifications to manage, view, or clean notifications. Manage alerts for specific applications. To view notifications on the lock screen without unlocking the device, go to the Settings of the Show Preview, and select Always.Raise before waking up is available on the iPhone 6s or later. The notification center shows the notification history, allowing you to scroll back and see what you missed. There are two ways to see your alerts from the notification center: From the lock screen, swipe up from the middle of the screen. From any other screen, swipe down from the center of the top of the screen. To clear the notification history: Tap and hold and click Clear All Notifications. Or click and click Clear.To control notifications from the lock screen or notification center: Swipe to the left of the alert or alert group. Click Control and then choose from these options: Delivery Silent: These notifications appear in the Notification Center, but do not appear on the lock screen, play sounds, or show a banner or icon icon. Off: This turns off all notifications for a particular app. To turn this back on, go to the settings of the notifications, select the app and click Allow notifications. You can also click Settings to change styles or setting up an alert for a particular app. To add or change the style of alert for notification:Go to the settings of the notifications.Select app under the style of notification. Choose the type of alert and the style of the banner. You can also turn on or off sounds and icons. You can use group notifications or keep them separate. Go to the settings of the notifications.Select app app Click Grouping Select Notification one of these options: Automatically: Notifications from each app will be displayed in groups based on app alerts. By app: All notifications from each app will be grouped into single expandable alerts. Off: Notifications appear in the order they received without grouping. From here, you can also choose how to show advance notifications for specific apps. For example, notifications can be previewed all the time or never, even if the device is locked. Some apps use your location to send relevant alerts depending on where you are. For example, you can get a reminder to call someone when you get to a specific location or when you leave for your next location. If you don't want this kind of alert, you can disable them. Go to the settings of the zgt; the service, and then tap the app to turn on or off the alerts depending on your location.
