Let those who fear
the LORD now say,
“His mercy
endures forever.”

Psalm 118:4

We Welcome You!

We are honored that you chose to visit with us today. We hope that you will stay around a few minutes after our service to become better acquainted. We are eager to know you! We hope you will come to see us as we see ourselves, a group of people who desire to live and love like Jesus.

If you seek meaning and purpose in your life, we invite you to come and join us as we study God's word, the Bible, and find the true joy and fulfillment that can only be found in Him. Our doors and hearts are open. So, if you've been thinking, praying, searching, and hoping for a place to belong, we say again—welcome!

“Let Those Who Fear the Lord Now Say”

Singer and songwriter Charles F. Monroe is credited with composing the popular hymn “Unto the Oh Lord!” in 1971. The lyrics and melody became popularized by Maranatha Music in that same year. Most hymnists suggest his work was based on Psalm 25:1-7, in which we are reminded that the Lord IS the God of our salvation! But why is this factual?

It's true because those of us who reverently fear the Lord are always in proximity to His eternal blessings. Our text affords the understanding that mercy and grace extend from reverently fearing the One who is commander of our souls. The psalmist states, “Let those who fear the Lord now say, 'His mercy endures forever.' (Psalm 118:4, NKJV). This dictum implies that not all humanity will fear. Additionally, it infers that not all fear unto the saving of their souls. And this, it's truly saddening.

Fear is natural and is necessary for all of life to survive on the face of the earth. God issues mankind a hierarchical fear over all other lifeforms (Genesis 1:26, 1:28, 9:2). Mankind has always been given the right to hunt for food. Fish to feed their families. And to trap for needed supplies, which often furnish protection for bodies and shelter for their homes. Indeed, God is a good God. As you might notice, God also instilled a crucial nature of instinct into the prey of mankind. This “nature” is given to all creatures, in that God did not intend for humanity to exploit, destroy, or misuse nature for selfish reasons. This is clearly the example given to humanity in the relationship given to them by their Creator Himself! He, God, never wastes (John 6:12). He never abuses (Matthew 20:28). He never, ever, abuses His authority, as men would falsely reason among themselves in judgment of Him (Psalm 11:5). These things are never so with such a Loving and Lording God.

So, what is the counsel of those who fear the Lord? Like the instinctual fear given to animals to protect themselves against mankind, God has given humanity a need to fear Him in a like manner. Therefore, what they generally say is “The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want” (Psalm 23:1). They generally say, “The Lord is gracious and full of compassion, Slow to anger and great in mercy” (Psalm 145:8). They generally say, “I will call upon the Lord, who is worthy to be praised; So shall I be saved from my enemies” (Psalm 18:3). This is due to one understanding that the inherent nature of God is to save, not condemn! Therefore, it is incumbent upon God's Creation to understand Him and all His goodness. As the psalmist intimated, “O my God, I trust in You; Let me not be ashamed; Let not my enemies triumph over me.” (Psalm 25:2). We, who fear the Lord, must always seek His face, not that we fear being destroyed, but rather fear being lost TO HIS LOVE for an eternity in outer darkness and eternal shame (Jude 1:10). For those who fear the Lord now say, “we love you” by keeping His commandments for they are not grievous as men often deem them to be. Rather, they see and hear the example of The Christ stating, “...be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33c). What do YOU say? Think about these things and God Bless,

Dr. Archie R. Green, Ed.D.
