📍 Peru - Huanchaco

Enjoy the beating sun of Peru, catching the perfect waves and joining community outreach programs that will immerse you in the small fisherman town. Nestled by the Pacific Ocean and desert mountains. Our surfing program allows you to start at the basic level with lessons from local surf coaches and surf gear included, five days a week, two hours a day. The town flourishes with tourists, shops and excellent ceviche (common fish meal).

Program Description

Enjoy the ocean outdoors with Surfing, other fun activities and new friends!

Huanchaco is a great surfing destination as the weather forecasts are pleasant all year round. The perfect wave conditions attract sport addicts from all over the world!

Absolute beginners wanting to try surfing or people needing a refresher course are both welcome to take part in our surfing experience and enjoy the perfect conditions Peru has to offer.

Even though Huanchaco is a cozy, little seaside town, it hosts competitions throughout the year, which gives it a great surfing vibe. The waves are also moderated, which make it the perfect destination for beginners as well as for people who want to improve their surfing skills.

The community outreach programs change throughout the year. During the summer (January-March), programs include, but are not limited to, beach clean ups, recycling projects, swim classes for children, creating gardens, painting and English classes. During the school year (March- December), participants can assist in running an afterschool program for children who need help with homework, reading and expanding creative skills.

The villages behind the beachfront are where education is underdeveloped, and we spend time joining and creating community outreach programs. Participants will spend one-three hours in their community outreach project, five days a week.

The participants have free time in the evenings and weekends, so in your free times you will be able to plan your trips to get to know the surroundings and have also fun with other friends!

There are several fascinating archaeological sites that surround Huanchaco, which participants can choose to take excursions to during their free time.

The surf school will provide all the necessary gear including a wetsuit and the surfboard.
