Community Health Charities Web Site Privacy Policy

The mission of Community Health Charities* is to enhance the operations, programs and services of its member health-related charitable agencies through access to workplace giving. Community Health Charities brings America's best health charities together in the workplace to provide employees an opportunity to give to the causes most important to them is an idea that is now half of a century old. For 50 years, Community Health Charities, through the leadership of its volunteers, member charities, and staff, has been instrumental in supporting the private and public sectors in building a culture of giving that is inherent to the American way of life. Community Health Charities continues to be the leader in raising funds in the workplace for America's most trusted health-related charities in both the private and public sector. In 2006, the efforts of Community Health Charities translated to almost $69 million pledged nationwide to our member charities – funding important community education programs and services, research discoveries, and efforts to protect the rights of those confronting a health issue who need a voice. Community Health Charities is one of the most cost effective non-profit organizations, keeping its national overhead costs at just 6.6%.
