Billboard 100 april 2018

Drake (pictured) scored three number one hits with God's Plan, Good for What and In My Feelings. He broke the record for most weeks at number one a year for a single artist, with 29 weeks at number one. God's Plan became the longest-running number one hit of the year and topped the Billboard Year-End Hot 100 2018. The Billboard Hot 100 is the top chart in the United States. His data, published by Billboard magazine and compiled by Nielsen SoundScan, is based on weekly physical and digital sales of each song, as well as on the number of broadcasts received on American radio stations and streaming online digital music editions. During 2018, eleven singles reached number one on the Hot 100; Ed Sheeran's twelfth single, Perfect, a solo or duet with Beyonce, began at number one in December 2017. Of these eleven number one singles, four were co-ordinaries. In total, thirteen acts topped the chart as lead or featured artists, with nine-Camila Cabello, Young Thug, Childish Gambino, Ty Doll's Sign, XXXTentacion, Bad Bunny, J Balvin, Ariana Grande and Travis Scott-achieving their first Hot 100 number one single. Drake's God's Plan was the longest number of the year, topped the chart for eleven weeks; he later topped the Billboard Year-End Hot 100. Drake broke the record for most weeks at number one in a year for a single artist, with 29 weeks at number one. XXXTentacion became the first artist to posthumously number one since Static Major featured on Lil Wayne's Lollipop in 2008 and the first artist to lead the chart with posthumous number one since Notorious B.I.G. in Hypnotize in 1997, and eighth overall. Drake and Cardi B were the only acts who have multiple number one songs in 2018, with Drake having a majority with three and Cardi B with two. The Havana Story Chart became Camila Cabello's (pictured) first song to the top of the Hot 100. In the same week, her album Camila topped the Billboard 200. Cardi B (pictured) scored the second number one song with I Like It, making her the first female rapper to do so. She later scored third number one with a credit for Maroon 5's Girls as you extended her own record for most number one among female rappers. This Is America was Childish Gambino's first song (pictured) and 31st, debuting at number one on the chart. Thank U, Next was Ariana Grande's first song to reach the top of the Hot 100, and the 32nd song, debuting at number one on the chart. XXXTentacion (pictured) became the first artist to posthumously top the chart as lead artist since Notorious B.I.G. in 1997, with The Garden! Strike number one after his death.
