TeamFit Mission

To provide an affordable, structured support system, with an integrated plan including both fitness and nutrition coaching as well as an absolute commitment to our clients' success for anyone who's truly made the decision to make a change.

What We Are About

You are just one simple decision away from the body and fitness level you've always wanted. There is no magic bullet to get you to your fitness or fat loss goals. Miracle diets only provide short term results and, far more often than not, rebounding back with even more added pounds. Sound familiar? It's a frustrating and depressing cycle.

TeamFit Ft Worth is a small group fitness studio providing our clients with a fully integrated, all-inclusive approach to reaching all of your fitness and health goals. Our process begins with a complete fitness and nutrition assessment by your coach to establish where you are in relation to your goals. The next step is designing a complete plan to reach all your goals in a really fun, energetic, healthy and, most importantly, SUSTAINABLE way that you can maintain for years to come.

Our system is based on these four cornerstones to help you reach your health and fitness goals

1) It needs to be fun.

Our workouts are always changing with a mix of boot camp style workouts and circuit resistance training. We limit our class size to 5 or 6 so you're not just a face in the crowd and you've always got your coach and your teammates cheering you on.

2) It needs to work in the kitchen.

Our certified fitness nutrition specialist will do a complete nutrition assessment and provide personalized meal and supplement planning to help you maximize the gains from your hard work in the gym.

3) It needs to give you tangible, concrete results.

Every client starts out with trackable goals for fitness, flexibility, body composition measurements. We measure, compare, record and fine tune your individual program to get maximum results. In addition to your individual goals, we also have an online leaderboard so you can see your performance growing as you get stronger and root for your teammates.

4) It needs to be SUSTAINABLE.

There is nothing in our program that cannot be maintained for the rest of your life, regardless of where you start. All of the workouts can be personalized for whatever fitness level you start with and your coach is always by your side to keep you progressing and moving forward.

Right now, you are just a simple decision away from meeting all your fitness and health goals and keeping that body for years to come.

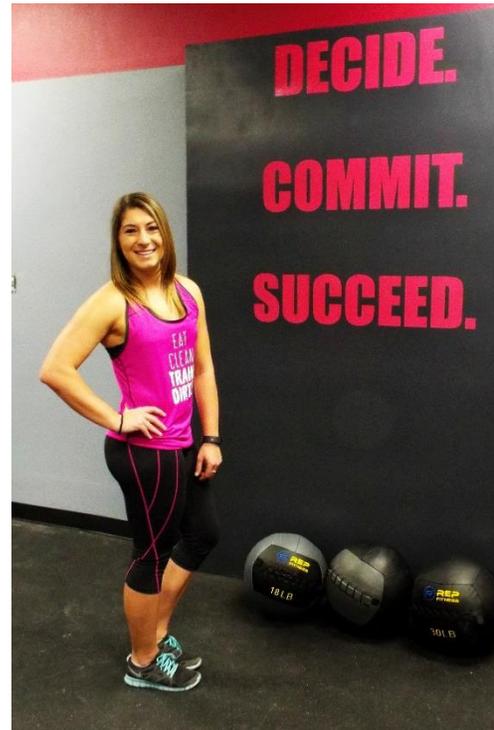

We look forward to seeing your success story unfold.

Meet Your Coaches

Brenna Hicks

I've been active in sports all my life. I played volleyball, track and field as well as softball. Health and fitness became my life's passion while attending Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas. In 2012, I began training clients from various demographics and fitness levels. While there, I trained a very diverse clientele including pre/post-natal mothers, elite athletes, stay at home moms, bodybuilders, fitness competitors, seniors, individuals with specific medical and physical limitations and many more. In 2013, I transferred to the University of Texas at Arlington where I received my Bachelors of Science in Exercise Science in August 2014. In 2015, I received my certification as a Fitness Nutrition Specialist.

I have had some wonderful success stories with clients over the years. Providing a fully integrated program for clients without the major financial commitment is something I have always hoped to be able to provide. Reaching all your fitness and health goals should be accessible to anyone who's willing to fully commit to making it happen.

Opening Teamfit Ft Worth is the embodiment of those principles.

A client's workout is a major building block toward reaching their fitness goals but it's only one part of the big picture. Nutrition coaching can play an even bigger role through meal planning, support, as well as good quality supplement selections.

My mission with every client at TeamFit is to first help them get a clear vision of their immediate, short-term and long-term goals then develop a plan to get maximum progress while still having an amazing time during the process. From day one, our coaches are working side by side with clients during workouts, assessments, measurements, and nutrition coaching. Additionally, we've got our Member Connect app for members to share their success with their teammates and cheer for their successes as well.

I was an athlete in High school and have been involved in some form of fitness training since shortly after graduating. I've always enjoyed exploring the various types of fitness programs. There is so much out there and I like to be educated on all that I can. With my children grown, I was finally in a place that I could leave corporate America and do what I wanted to do. It has been the best journey and of course I wish I had done it years ago. I love the connection and being a part of celebrating peoples achievements. Educating people on nutrition and seeing the light bulbs finally go off makes me smile the most.

I have been active in fitness my whole life. I signed up for every 5k and 10k I could talk my parents in to starting at the age of 9 yrs. old. I ran long distance in track, did long jump and played volleyball in Jr High & High School.

Then life happened.

In 2012, I had a medical issue that required surgery and, in that surgery, I went into cardiac arrest two times. The doctors say that because I worked out, was in good health, my heart has absolutely no damage from those heart attacks.

While recovering from this surgery GOD spoke to me & I was convinced that Personal Training is my calling... to help others learn to take care of themselves, teach people of all ages & fitness levels to be healthy which could help them to live a longer healthier life. It saved me...

Why not pass it on to others so they can save themselves?

"The biggest transitions in our lives are very seldom complex.....

Making the choice to become fit and healthy wasn't complicated either. I looked in the mirror and realized "I MUST change". I told myself countless times that " I should" or " I need to". Those phrases were generally followed up by resolving to start working out next week or after the holidays or after the dinner party. Sound familiar? I made the decision but I knew I needed a plan and a support system if I was going to make this transformation happen. Brenna Hicks was the coach I needed to put the plan to work.

On February 27 2015, I had just returned from a seven-day cruise full of wine and fabulous food at my highest weight ever. I was committed and motivated but in very poor shape. I was over 255 pounds at just 5'8", struggling with high cholesterol, aches and pains, and a diet of fabulous food and wines that was packing pounds on faster than I could ever hope to work off.

I've struggled with my weight for all of my adult life. Losing 20-30 pounds multiple times only to gain it all right back. That cycle continued for a long time, but by the time I turned 50 it was dramatically harder to get the pounds back off. I was on the fast track for a short-wasted life.

The most important lesson I learned: If your improvement plan is not part of a permanent lifestyle change, progress will be fleeting. There's no magic bullet to get you to your goals. The trade-off for all your efforts is you get to keep the body and fitness level you've always wanted for the rest of your life. That's a pretty good deal.

As we worked on the fitness portion of the plan and slowly progressed, we started to make the necessary adjustments to my diet. Why? The idea of going through all that work in the gym only to sabotage my progress through poor eating and drinking, without any moderation at all, would have been ridiculous. Adding a consistent fitness component to your routine will always help, but if you don't eat right, you'll be forever out of shape, just gaining at a slower pace.

Fast forward a year. Combining our workouts and eating right allowed me to not only lose 75 pounds by year-end but also complete 13 half marathons in 2015, concluding in back to back races on New Years' Eve and New Years' Day.

Making the decision and committing to fulfilling it has left me transformed both physically and internally. Everything we've done in the process has been sustainable, simple and fun so I know I'll never have to make up that lost ground again.

Let's face it... eating right is hard! Not only does it take self-discipline, self-motivation, and knowing what you are doing but it also takes time planning out all those meals that correlate with your specific goals. Factors that help us in the development of your meal plan is your current eating habits, your age, weight, activity level, ethnicity, your food preferences/food allergies and YOUR SPECIFIC health and fitness goals. Bridal Fitness

TeamFit FtWorth

Why workout pre-wedding?

Weddings are stressful! Finding the perfect dress, picking color schemes, catering, venues, invitations, getting a photographer and so much more are what make brides want to pull their hair out. Of course, every bride wants to look perfect in her wedding dress as she walks towards her future husband down the aisle. No, losing your love handles isn't going to make you a better bride. It is about the CONFIDENCE that you will have as you walk down that aisle for everyone to see your gorgeous dress and rockin' body!

Working out not only will give you the confidence as you walk down the aisle with all eyes on you but it will relieve that unwanted stress from planning, dealing with in-laws, and seating charts. It will also give you more energy throughout the day so you can focus on tasks at hand.

When should you start working out?

Establishing your timeline will be your first step. Things to consider are going to be with your final dress fitting is, what is your target weight, are you new to exercise or currently in an exercise program and just need to ramp it up. Once your timeline is set you can start planning your workout program. The more time you have, the more you can change and get better result before the big day.

You also have to be realistic. Don't cause unnecessary stress by vowing to lose 50 pounds in two months. You can safely lose between 4-8 pounds a month. So, if you'd like to drop 10 pounds, you need at least 5-10 weeks.

Nutrition

Nutrition will either make or break your fitness goals. Without eating a proper, healthy diet to supplement your workouts you won't see those results as fast. Make sure you are feeding yourself and not starving yourself. Not eating enough will sabotage all the hard work you have put in towards your goals. When you go without eating or eating too little, your body will begin to hold on to the calories you consume and store it as fat. When we consistently feed our bodies, in a healthy and nutritious way, our bodies will continuously burn fat throughout the day.

We offer 3 different programs - Basic, Plus, Total Transformation.
Each program has a 1-month and 3-month package, depending on your wedding-ready timeline.
