8/2/11		High speed chase spans three freeways, nearly thirty miles 5:33 a.m. PDT, August 2, 2011 FEDERAL WAY— A suspected car thief is under arrest after leading Washington State Patrol (WSP) troopers on a high speed chase Tuesday morning. The chase began when a trooper attempted to pull over a stolen van on I-405 in Bellevue about 2:30 a.m. The ensuing pursuit lasted more than 30 minutes, went all the way south to SR 167 in Pierce County then back north on I-5, a WSP spokesman said. On South 320th Street in Federal Way, a trooper used the pursuit intervention technique (PIT) and nudged the back bumper of the van. The suspect spun out and when he attempted to continue driving, he was pinned in by a WSP cruiser. The suspect was eventually taken into custody and booked into King County Jail. The van and a WSP cruiser were both slightly damaged in the chase. Note: the SR 167 webcam showed 8 patrol cars in pursuit (Tom)

The ramp closed at 9:10am for the investigation. Center of the intersection is blocked (Tom) Update: intersection remained blocked until 10:40am Chase Ends With Collision Of Prius, Minivan Posted: 11:48 am PST February 15, 2011 KENT, Wash. -- A brief pursuit that started on State Route 167 led to a collision in Kent on Tuesday morning, troopers told KIRO 7 Eyewitness News. A trooper on a motorcycle tried to pull over a gray Ford van for speeding, but the driver wouldn't stop, starting a brief chase, the Washington State Patrol said. The driver got off on the Willis Street exit, drove through a red light and hit a Prius. The impact sent the Prius spinning into a box truck. The driver ran away, but troopers used a stun gun on him and took him into custody. The State Patrol arrested the 29-year-old Ravensdale man for "felony eluding" and suspicion of drunken driving.

12/29/10		Two Injured In Hwy. 167 Collision Involving State Trooper Patrol Car Two Lanes Blocked by Crash 11:05 p.m. PST, December 29, 2010 Emergency crews responded late Wednesday night to an accident on State Route 167 involving a Washington State Patrol Trooper. The collision involving the Troopers patrol car and another vehicle occurred around 10:30 p.m. Wednesday night, and it's not clear which driver was injured. WSP Spokesperson Julie Startup said the wreck happened when a WSP trooper was traveling northbound to the scene of an collision. The trooper was traveling in the HOV lane when the a car next to him lost control near S. 212th St. and spun in front of his cruiser. The cruiser t-boned the passenger car. The cruiser's airbags deployed and the trooper sustained minor injuries. He was taken to Valley Hospital to get checked out. The driver of the passenger car sustained serious injuries and was also transported to Valley Hospital. The accident blocked the two left lanes of Highway 167 Northbound just South of South 212th Street just after it happened. A second minor collision occurred a short time later when another trooper was traveling northbound on Hwy.167 in the HOV lane to assist with the first collision. A semi truck bumped a passenger car into the cruiser causing the second crash. No one was injured in that collision. (Tom)

A trooper on a motorcycle tried to pull over a gray Ford van for speeding, but the driver wouldn't stop, starting a brief chase, the Washington State Patrol said. The driver got off on the Willis Street exit, drove through a red light and hit a Prius. The impact sent the Prius spinning into a box truck. The driver ran away, but troopers used a stun gun on him and took him into custody. The State Patrol arrested the 29-year-old Ravensdale man for "felony eluding" and suspicion of drunken driving.
