We updated everything you should know and keep in mind about articles while playing Dota2. Do reading and discovering unique knowledge. Master the game with GOSU. All items play a huge role in Dota 2. You can master your last hits and denies at the level of a pro game, but if you don't have a clear understanding of what and when should you buy certain items and what this item will affect, you will never become a good player. That's why our goal here is to create an in-depth and informative guide that will be simple and easy to use for games at different levels of experience. As you know, items don't have strict restrictions in Dota 2, meaning that any character can buy any item as long as you have enough gold for it. You make one slightly simple: you made a decent amount of hits last, saved some money, it purchased an item. Can it get even easier? No. How about more complicated? Make sure things he can. There are plenty of critical factors that one has to keep in mind while playing. Analyzing the actual match, the heroes, the situation – and based on these factors, one can make a decision of whether to purchase or not buy a particular item. For example, you don't need a Monkey King bar (MKB), if no one is on the enemy's team with the ability to raid (unless you play Windranger or Snapfire, as they can benefit a lot from having an MKB). That is one of the reasons why people like to play this game – each match is unique and requires a special approach. Chart of what First Things to do – Knowing the roleProbably the most important thing in this whole guide is the understanding of your role in the match. Should you have a clear picture of – what role will you take, and which style your game will be? In this article, we've already covered all the possible options for you, so let's not repeat ourselves. The reason why we're mentioning it now is that each role has its own unique set of items and timings for the buyers. That's why you should always know for sure that the role you're playing, so you can buy the right items according to your plan for the game and don't chaotically buy anything that looks appropriate right now. Enemy's team analysis is also quite essential for your plan – if you've taken the role of Support and now you see that the enemy has chosen a hero with invisibility, it is time to adjust your purchase list by adding Wentry Wards and Dust to Apparel. This means that you'll have to spend some gold on these items particularly, and long-desired you, say, Arcane Bots will take more time to buy. The most important article for PositionSo Positions, now let's start our guide and, perhaps, the most popular position among the majority of new players – Bear. Now you probably already know everything about this position in our guide, so let's cut into the chase – the most items Heroes are needed. Early GameFor a Carry role, games often take Quelling Blade (for melanin heroes only), some status starts donated by Iron Branch or other items, and, for sure, tango. Other statures help in lane more uncomfortable. The Quelling Blade increases your damage to the creep and net. This is very important as a Carry role is a very gray one; you should take every gold you can. That's why players often choose to buy the hand of Midas to get more gold and experience. However, if there is no such possibility, find yourself attributes – 2-3 Wraith Bands (or what's more suitable for your heroes) and Botts at speed. Carrying heroes can deal with lots of serious damage just with this initial set of articles, so don't underestimate basic matters! Mid GameNow it's time to buy the items that can make your hero stronger. These items are different for everyone. For instance, Slark can real issue with a Blade Shadow, though nothing more. This article makes a very powerful combination with Slark's ultimate. Also, a good example would be Phantom Lancer and The Hard Blade. As this hero has many illusions in himself, having this item at hand, the game can cause significant damage to the HP and MP of the opponent Mr. Wraith King wouldn't even stand a chance against those items! And don't forget about the active skills! Always remember that you still need to be firm. It may be wise to buy something that will increase the speed of this process – Maelstrom, Fury Battle, or Mask of Madness.Earth main purpose of any Carry is to deal as much damage as possible and get away with it successfully. That's why it would be wise to have some items for your supervisable – such as Black King Bar from magic attack, Butterfly to attack speed and fedge physical attacks, and Santhorn to guarantee critical damage and silent effects. The most important item for Position Mid PositionNow, let's continue with the position of mid line. Some say, this is the most difficult one, as you need to have perfect creep statistics, net worth, and items, while pushing your line, roaming in other lines and destroying the enemy tower. Well, that's the ideal situation, of course. However, it is partially true – you don't have a partner on the line to cover you while you make a purchase decision. You must make decisions immediately, based on the current state of matters. But then again, some items are mandatory for anyone in the mid line. Take a look at this list below. We did not make a list for every attribute or hero; it's just about the items that are good for everyone. Early GameIt is quite a popular strategy among games to buy Null Talisman components (or Bracer, or Wraith Band, depending on your hero's main attribute), as they significantly boost your damage, survival, and defense. Generally, shared equipment is tango play the middle. With these items, you will be able to firm up a lot, annoy your opponents, and effectively gain gold and experience. Once you have your first gold, fill one or more Null Talisman/Bracer/Wraith strips and then consider buying yourself a bottle and boot at speed. The first one will allow you to heal yourself and restore Mana (even if they use it to its full potential, don't forget to always pick up runs!), while the second one will increase your mobility. You'll be able to run away or, on the contrary, catch the foe. Mid GameOnce you enter the middle game, it's time for more serious items, something that can give you an advantage over your opponents. For example, Blink Dagger will increase your mobility a lot. You'll be able to do a surprise attack on your enemies, hold them, or, again, escape easily. And the Scepter of Eul's of Deities will increase your Mana regeneration, which is still a problem for all distribution heroes. Plus, his active skill will give you some control of the crowd (whether used on an enemy) or a way to avoid a foe's spell (if used on your head). A more helpful article would be Orchid Malevolence. Aside from its passive bonuses, it has a very useful Silence skill, which makes you a very dangerous target for heroes such as Temporary Spirit or Anti-Mage who use their skills to move quickly. End of the game of late, you need powerful artifacts that could change the outcome of the fight. If there is a lot of magic damage, then the purchase of the Black Bar is a must. It will allow you to live through all spells of enemies and win the battle. Also, a very good choice would be Scythe in Vyse, which gives you control over the opponent. At this stage of the game, 3.5 seconds for being a little pork can end up disaster. The most important article for Support position position is hard to argue that the role of support is not one of the most important. Ward, Tangos, Healing Salves, and Clarity –will provide good support to his team, providing all the help he can. Early JeumeSupports never got a lot of money in hand. From the very beginning, you have donated tango to your mid-lane player. If the enemy's crew has heroes and invisibility, you'll have to buy Wards Sentry and Dust apparel. All that costs a lot of gold, so usually support players don't have many items. However, eventually, you will be able to buy the artifacts. You should focus on buying items that will be useful for the team, such as Arcane Boots and Mechanisms, for example. They enable your allies to restore HP and MP. Moreover, in order to increase your survivability and periodically save brings you to buy a Glimmer Cape, as this item can be given to you, or your ally, invisibility. Though this skills time is rather short, the Dota 2 even a second one can become game-changing. Mid GameAt scene follows you to continue buying items that can help you Staff strength is the item that can never be overestimated. Aside from the passive bonuses such as HP recognized and the increase in Scholars, its active skill is very important in any situation: it pushes the selected target or yourself in the direction you're looking at. It's a wonderful artifact both to move and for the withdrawal. It can be combined with some hero's skills, such as the Sangenseker Rupture, increase the amount of damage. Some heroes can reveal their full potential with Blink Dagger. It reinforces mobility significantly, which sometimes can be critical. For example, Shadow Shaman or Lions would cause much more problems to the enemy team with this article. At this stage, BKB, with its magical resistance with Lotus Orb, which creates a shields around the target, which reflects most of their spell directed back on the enemy, will be very useful against heroes with powerful naked skills, such as Lion, Lina, Terrorblade, Pudge or Sniper. If you still have some gold, you can build your power by purchasing Scythe in Vyse. Most important item for offlane role PositionOfflane is very complicated as you have alone. That's why your articles and your skills are the only help on the way to victory. Early GameJust like for Carry, if your hero has a kind of attack pain, Quelling Blade will make your steps easier. With this item, you should purchase some items, which will give you additional stats. Headres or Boukler are great options. In case there's a lot of magic damage, consider buying the hood of loser. It will give you enough magical resistance to live at their disposal and strike back. Vanguard is a very common option at the hard line. It makes you more resistant. Mid GameNow, it's high time to turn that hood into the Pipes of Insight, so you will not only reduce magic damage but also share this anti-magic protect with your teams. This is a very efficient way of spoiling a team battle for enemy's highs like Invoker. The Vanguard you can upgrade with Crimson Rangers. This article is very useful against physical damage, as it provides your armored allies with a 100% chance of blocking a portion of an incoming attack. If you're still in the middle of a fight, think about Blade Mail. His ability to return any damage to the unit caused him to shift the fight to a second. This article is a must-have for heroes such as Access, who skipped right to hell. Speaking of jumping – don't forget about Blink Dagger! What else will you appear to your enemies? Late in GameNice's article to step in late in the match for an Offlane hero would be something that allowed him to live in the fight. Black King Bar Against Magic Attack, Tarrasque Heart skyrocket survivability w, or attacking Cuirass, a teenager for the entire team. It increases the armor speed and attack of allied buildings and animals while reducing the weaponry of nearby enemies. For Sum UpAs you now most definitely understand, it takes a lot of knowledge, experience, and practice to be a successful Dota 2 player. You should know what roles are presented there, how to play accordingly, know all items in the shops, and understand when it is best to buy a particular item. That is not something that you can achieve overnight. It's going to take a lot of games lost before you start winning. But you can make the process faster!
